Operation Stalemate II – Battle for Peleliu

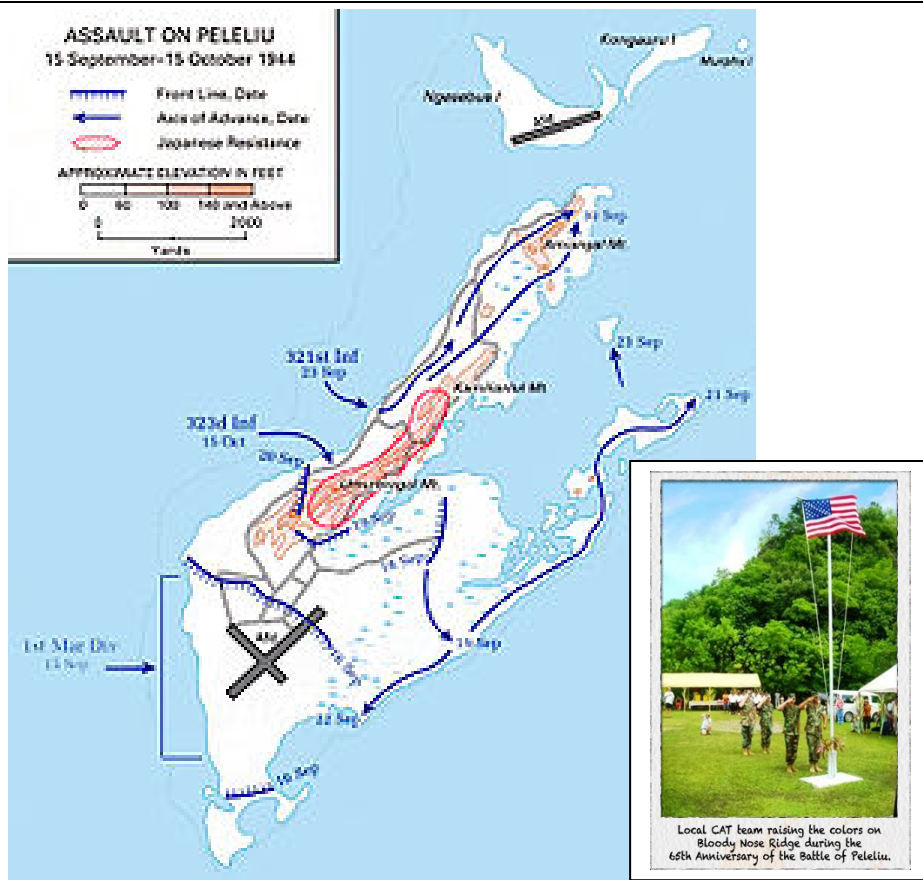

September 10 to 17, 2025

Escorted by Scott Freund

81st Anniversary

With Saipan, Tinian and Guam secured in the summer of 1944, General MacArthur was determined to fulfill his famous promise to return to the Philippines. The Palaus were seen as a possible stepping-stone. Occupied by the Japanese since WWI their strategic importance had not escaped the Japanese who built airfields and defensive positions all supported by well-armed and trained soldiers. These airfields appeared to be a threat to the American advance but intelligence about Japanese strength was sadly lacking after reconnaissance had failed to locate Japanese defenses or even the very profile of the islands. Too late, the American invasion force was to discover how well prepared for battle was the enemy. On September 15, 1944 Operation Stalemate II was put in to motion, as the 1st Marine Division landed on Peleliu, later to be relieved by the U.S. Army 81st Infantry Division, both fighting in one of the bloodiest battles of the Pacific campaign in WWII.

"It was 55 years ago that Wendall fought on Peleliu. This was a trip (Return to Peleliu, 2000) back in time for him under peaceful conditions. I had a great desire for many years, to visit that island – to see the war remnants, which remain, as grim reminders of the sacrifice and bravery of our servicemen during that terrible struggle. This trip will long remain vividly in my memory. I'm glad that we were able to share it together." Wendall & Jean Clift, Laurel, Florida

"An absolutely fascinating trip (independently planned tour of the Pacific including Palau) – beautiful, different, exciting, and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. Valor Tours did us proud – exceptionally well organized and arranged." Doris and Ed Hopper, Illinois

"Thank you for a wonderful trip! (Return to Peleliu, 2004) The boat rides and tours were amazing. The people we met were so friendly and hospitable. It was an amazing experience for Ken to be able to return to Orange Beach after sixty years. This time he was not being shot at! He enjoyed talking with the other Veterans and hearing what the history buffs had to say." Kenneth & Jill Harrell
